Allocation PL1, Land South of Potash Lane and North of Paddock Orchard, Platt. Photographs taken October 2026 by Fiona and Ben Newton, The Barn, Potash Lane.

Photo 10. Approach lane to the site: single-track between high hedges, with no footway or verge.
